Discovery Day: An Instrument Petting Zoo at Kaufman Music Center

Sample a menagerie of musical instruments with expert faculty at NYC's largest community music school!

During Discovery Day at Kaufman Music Center on Tuesday, June 13, children ages 4+ can strum on a guitar, learn how it feels to bow a cello, and take a turn at the trumpet or saxophone-plus more! From 3:30pm - 6:30pm, stop by and encourage interaction with instruments under the guidance of Lucy Moses School's experienced, nurturing faculty members. Families can also step into Kaufman Music Center's Merkin Concert Hall to enjoy short performances by talented young Lucy Moses School students. Snacks will be available during the event.

Additionally, on June 13, children and their caregivers can participate in a sample 20-minute Dalcroze Eurhythmics class in which they'll explore musical concepts through active rhythm games, creative movement, songs and stories. They can also move joyfully in a sample 20-minute Creative Dance and Modern Dance classes in Lucy Moses School's dance studio. Space in these classes is limited, so be sure to sign up in advance by calling (212) 501-3360.

Discovery Day isn't the only exciting event happening at Kaufman Music Center this month. On Wednesday, June 21, Special Music School will graduate its first senior class! So, congratulations to the first graduating high school class of 2017.
